DTS XR 8 Spot Moving Head On Tour With

With his explicit lyrics against society, often also polemical with the establishment, Fabri Fibra is one of Italy's most controversial rappers. An extremely active artist, having collaborated with many performers on the Italian hip-hop scene, Fibra has published five albums.

His latest work "Bugiardo" (Liar) was released last November, and soon went platinum. The album was promoted with the "Bugiardo Tour", starting last March and ending in September, with Fibra playing dozens of concerts in clubs and town squares all over Italy. Technical support for the tour was provided by DG Systems.

Paolo Fossataro, lighting designer for the "Bugiardo Tour", chose to match Fibra's pounding music by mainly backlighting the musicians, using projectors directly onstage or suspended from three parallel battens (two behind the musicians and one frontally), opting for aggressive lights and colours, often pointed directly at the audience, making it an integral part of the show.

The stage had four vertical columns arranged behind the musicians, fitted with eight XR8 WASH mobile heads, alternated with five rotating panels with mirrors on one side and a system of RGB LED strips on the other, made by Fossataro himself. Eight FLASH 4000 blinders were installed beneath the columns and the rotating panels.

The lighting system also included four ACL Series (two at ground level and two suspended from the first batten), six XR8 SPOT mobile heads on the second batten, alternated with FLASH 4000's, and four bars of PAR's installed on the third batten, the only projectors that lit the musicians frontally.
